Do you have any additional comments about the proposal for amendments to the black bear and cougar rules? While I support the proposal, the fact that this type of activity is allowed is hard to believe. In my opinion, it is unethical for a human to coordinate the pursuit and killing of wildlife in the name of "sport". Animals doing it on their own is one thing, but the fact that permits are issued and sold for the activity is completely wrong.

Do you have any additional comments about proposal for extending the Wolf Management Plan? I watched the presentation twice, and still wasn't clear what being for or against the proposal meant. I do not support the transfer of wolves found on any part of Utah that is not delisted.

Do you have any additional comments about the proposal for amendments to the black bear and cougar rules? I see no reason to chase bears at any time especially for harvest. I do understand the mountain lion problem and agree with the case policy.

Do you have any additional comments about the proposal for amendments to the black bear and cougar rules? On the Mount Dutton area there was an out fitter through all the elk hunts that would repeatedly chase and tree the same bears over and over. This was very disruptive to the hunters in that unit. There should be some black out dates or something that makes sure all hunters have the chance to have a good hunt experience Bear hunters and other big game hunters such as deer and elk hunters.

The DWR is way behind the curve on harvesting bear and cougar. THEIR NUMBERS ARE OUT OF CONTROL. They are annihilating our deer herds. The management needs to allow permitted hunting until the #of bear and cougar have been HARVESTED for that season & AREA. I HOPE YOU LISTEN BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE.

Do you have any additional comments about the proposal for amendments to the black bear and cougar rules? I think predators should be more protected. The deer decline isn't from bears. I'm totally against baiting. you might as well shot your dog in the garage for the same sport effect.

I feel as though there should only be a cap on non residents pursuing on the 3 units mentioned Other than that I'm fine with what was said however if we limit the number of residents on those three units there will be flow over onto the units not mentioned and a possibility of further conflict on more units statewide

This is an absolute joke! More restrictions on resident houndsmen is not the solution! 2 yes waiting period for residents is also a joke! It set last year in the wildlife board meeting there would be NO increases in bear tags for 3years! Now another 50 tah increase? No WAY! There was already an additional 30 premium tags issued last year that should NOT have been issued

16 dogs is way too many dogs for chasing one bear or cougar!! Should stay with 8. There should not be any chase or hunting during the spring or summer when they have their young to look after.
As for the deer decline maybe rethink all the culling going on. Way too much controlling the wild life.
Every time something special is seen someone runs out and shoots it. Like a white elk we have been watching for several years. Was killed this summer. Too many trophy hunters.

Seen some really sickening videos of people after they kill a wolf like jerking off on the dead wolf, or continuing to shoot it.
Live trapping should be ban. Know of family pets and live stock getting caught in them losing their lives.
This hunt really needs some laws and control.

I say keep all pursuit tags for resident opportunity. Giving 10% of the tags to non residents only restricts the opportunity to the youth of our state. Restricting opportunity is one thing but to give 10% to non residents is cutting the locals down by 7 tags. If I am not mistaking wasn't it a nonresident camp that was a major issues on Lasal 2 seasons ago?

How can you recommend increase in bear permits for low deer #s. All the studies I've seen say bear are not impacting deer herds.

As an avid hounds women, I like the restricted pursuit units idea. It would be beneficial to the bears and Lions without completely shutting down the units. However, I would decrease the amount of out of state tags from 10% to 5%. I would also like the throw out the idea of adding a similar law that Arizona has for harvesting bears. Arizona has a quota for sows, once that quota for that unit is met, the hunt closes the following Wednesday. Each unit had a sow quota for each season. Another idea is adding a "conservation fee of 50% of the tag fee" if a sow/female cat is taken instead of a boar or tom. This will allow the hunters to be more mindful of the gender of the species that is being taken. Hunters will pay more attention to the bear orientation that needs to be taken every year. I don't feel like it would hurt to have a lion orientation as well. I feel like we need to try a little harder to protect our sows, female lions and cubs. I can just tell you every time I see a really young cat or bear taken or even just a sow or female lion taken it breaks my heart.

I feel I belong to a group that has very little representation because there is no financial incentive or skin in the game. I am not a houndsman or hunter, cattleman or landowner. Just an individual that enjoys most my free time and hobbies in the outdoors of Utah. More than just how many cats and bears are harvested, but the value and ethics of their lives is a concern. I have witnessed on numerous occasions when these dogs are ran without good control and seen these animals at the point of exhaustion. I am not an extreme animal rights activist of against hunting, but any human with eyes that witnessed some of these events would find it truly disturbing and realize there's something ethically wrong with it. Also it's bothersome to me that there can be multiple groups enjoying the mountains and have that experience tarnished by 1 group with bellowing dogs to run off everything. Any ruling that reigns this in I support, and know the majority of the public that don't follow these discussions because they're not hunters but feels they don't have a voice also supports. We are the public without money interests, we're the fishermen, hikers, campers, photographers, and lovers of the outdoors that think that one groups interests shouldn't be able to negatively affect so many other groups, and should be scaled back. Thank you. I'm grateful to have this platform to voice an opinion. After sharing time with so many others in the mountains I know this is a general feeling. If ever there's one of these to weigh in on trail cameras I know that's the other thing I wish we'd start to manage in Utah, it's gotten out of control
